This Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad caboose is the latest acquisition of the Northwest Franklin County Historical Society. It is being lifted off tracks at the C&O yards north of the Ohio Penitentiary for delivery to the society's display at the county fairgrounds in Hilliard. Robert King, president of the society, said the car is a donation from the railroad. It has been in a yard in Russell, Ky. King said the caboose will be placed on tracks in front of an old station the society acquired from the Pennsylvania railroad. King said members hope to get more railroad equipment. The caboose is valued at $800, King said and will be restored by society members, who got the idea from an article in The Dispatch Sunday magazine. (Dispatch Photos by Tom Sines)
